AN HONOR ROLL

Containing a pictorial record

Iowa, U. S. A., who served

PRESIDENT WOODROW WILSON

MARSHAL FERDINAND FOCH

FOREWORD

Volume after volume has been, and is being written, telling the part America had in the Great World war. Every American citizen worthy of the name rejoices when he contemplates the achievements of this country in the conflict which forever put an end to Prussianism and the theory of the divine right of kings.

As great as is our pride in the things accomplished by our beloved country, it is but natural that our greatest interest should be in the part our own county had in the Great war. During the time the battles of the war were still in progress, and the boys of America were steadily marching on to victory, we anxiously scanned the papers each day for news concerning the work of the American Expeditionary Forces, and when we happened to see something telling of the work of boys from Iowa, and particularly from Jasper County, our interest instantly became all the greater. For we naturally were interested in what our own boys were doing.

It is for the purpose of telling the achievements of the boys and Jasper County workers in the Great World conflict that this book is published. We can now look back at the record of Jasper County in every war enterprise and point with pride at the things that were done in helping to bring the war to a successful conclusion. Whether the call was for men, money, or Red Cross workers, it mattered not, Jasper County people were loyal, and they dropped all interest of a private nature and devoted their entire time and energy to winning the war.

For this reason, therefore, it is thought that a book such as this will prove to be of vital interest to every individual who takes pride in the work Jasper County did in bringing the former emperor of Germany to realize that there is indeed a greater partnership than "me unt Gott".

*Captain
J. Norman Hall*

CAPTAIN JAMES NORMAN HALL

Colfax, Iowa

The fortunes of war are so diversified and so uncertain that it is indeed difficult to expect or foresee what the future has in store for one soldier over another.

To at least one Jasper County man the gods of fate both smiled and frowned and provided a life of adventure and history making experience that seldom falls to the lot of any one individual. Captain James Norman Hall of Colfax, Iowa, in point of service, stands forth as Jasper County's premier soldier in the late world war. To Captain Hall was afforded the unique experience of serving under the colors of three of the great allied nations in the war against German autocracy—England, France, and when his own country entered the war, he immediately transferred his endeavors under the Stars and Stripes.

In civil life Captain Hall was a newspaper correspondent and contributed many articles to several well known American magazines. The Captain was sojourning in England at the time Germany, under the leadership of her former kaiser and emperor, Wilhelm II, undertook the conquest of the world. When Great Britain called her sons to the colors, Mr. Hall, though an American citizen, immediately "joined up," and on August 18, 1914, enlisted as a private at the Horseguards Parade, London, in the Ninth Battalion, Royal Fusiliers. He trained for a period of nine months in various camps in England, and was ordered into active service in France on May 30, 1915.

Mr. Hall served with the British Expeditionary Forces in France as a lance corporal, in charge of a machine gun section, from May 30, 1915, until November 24, 1915, on which date he was given an honorable discharge from the British army. Mr. Hall was given his discharge ostensibly because of being an American citizen, but actually because of the serious illness of his father, Mr. A. W. Hall, at Colfax, Iowa.

Mr. Hall returned to the United States in December, 1915, and remained at his home in Colfax until his father's health had improved sufficiently to allow him to return to England, which he did in July, 1916, expecting to reenlist in the British army. Mr. Hall found, however, that it was possible to enlist in France in the Lafayette Flying Corps as an aviator in the French service. On October 13, 1916, he enlisted in the Lafayette Flying Corps, and after six months of training, was sent to the front as a pilot in the Lafayette Escadrille, a squadron of American volunteer airmen, attached to a French Combat Group.

Captain Hall was wounded in an aerial combat on June 26, 1917, and spent the following two and one-half months in a hospital. Following recovery from his wounds, Captain Hall returned to the front in September, 1917. Upon returning to the front the second time he served with the French from September, 1917, until February 7, 1918, upon which date Mr. Hall accepted his commission as captain in the United States Air Service. He remained with the Lafayette squadron, which became the 103rd American Pursuit Squadron on February 18, 1918, until March 29, 1918, at which time Captain Hall was sent as flight commander to the 94th Pursuit Squadron, U. S. A.

Captain Hall served with the 94th Squadron until May 7, 1918, upon which date he was shot down behind the German lines, at Pagny-sur-Moselle, France, breaking both ankles and his nose in the fall. He remained a prisoner in Germany from that date until the signing of the armistice on November 11, 1918, and shortly afterward was released.

Captain Hall was honorably discharged from the service on March 10, 1919, after approximately four years of military service.

It was during Captain Hall's service in the British army that he wrote his famous book, "Kitchener's Mob," one of the most widely read books dealing with the war ever published.

The Jasper County Contingent, just before leaving for the cantonment in July, 1918. The group shown herewith consisted of nearly 250 men, and was the largest body of men to leave Jasper County at one time to join the colors. The picture was taken on the steps of the Methodist Episcopal Church, Newton.

The Red Cross in Jasper County

The first Red Cross organization in the county was the chapter at Colfax which came into existence within a few weeks after the United States entered the World War. The jurisdiction of this chapter included the city of Colfax and Washington and Poweshiek Townships. Organization was completed May 24, 1917.

At the same time, Miss Helen Needles, then school nurse at Newton, and who afterward saw service in France and Italy, was heading a movement at Newton to organize a chapter to cover the remainder of the county. On May 3, 1917, she received from the Central Division at Chicago acknowledgment of the receipt of a list of thirteen names as charter members of the chapter, and an expression of hope that the organization would in time grow into a national asset. Results more than justified the hope. A certificate recognizing the Jasper County Chapter, as this main organization was called, was issued from Washington, D. C., on June 1, 1917.

The two chapters operated as separate organizations during the war, but were united into one chapter covering the whole county at the annual meeting for 1918, held after the signing of the armistice.

During the war period, branches of the Colfax Chapter were organized at Mingo and Valeria. Branches of the Jasper County Chapter were organized at Ashton Chapel in Clear Creek Township, at Baxter, at Bethel Chapel in Richland Township, at Center-Victor school districts in Rock Creek Township, at Buena Vista Grange in Buena Vista Township, at Galesburg, at Ira, Killduff, Kellogg, Lynnville, Monroe, Newburg, Prairie City, Reasnor, and Sully. Auxiliaries were also organized at Wittenburg, and in Palo Alto Township.

During the war period, the work of the organization all over the county was along definite and uniform lines. The principal lines of work were the production of surgical dressings, the making of hospital supplies, including many articles of comfort for the soldiers in the field and for the relief of destitute civilians abroad; financial and other aid to soldiers in the service and their families; and the raising of large funds for use by the central authorities of the organization for the relief of suffering in the army and among civilians in the war zone. County wide membership campaigns were conducted, and the organization also did great local service during the first influenza epidemic. The branch at Newton, during that epidemic, organized, financed, and operated a hospital at a total expense of approximately $6000.00. The collection and shipping of old clothes for foreign relief was conducted over most of the county by other organizations under the supervision of Mrs. F. N. Grimes. The principal committees through which the work was done both at chapter headquarters and in the branches were Executive, Ways and Means, Hospital Supplies, Surgical Dressings, and Home Service.

The first war fund campaign and the membership campaigns were conducted by an organization over the county built up by the Red Cross itself. The second war fund campaign was handled by the Council of Defense of the county and was very creditably done. The campaigns or drives conducted were the following:

First War Fund Drive in June, 1917.

Second War Fund Drive in May, 1918.

RED CROSS

Membership Campaign in December, 1918.
Membership Campaign in December, 1919.

Local branches also conducted special campaigns for the raising of local funds. At Newton, pledges were made generally over the city for the payment of a certain amount monthly until the close of the war. Several thousand dollars were raised in this way.

Aside from the soliciting of funds, practically all the active productive work of the organization in the county was done by the women. A complete list of those who did this work would be a roll call of the women of the county. They also assisted materially in all financial campaigns, but the burden of this end of the work was carried by the men of the county. John Ruskin once set down a truth that holds good for all time: "You cannot think that this buckling on of the knight's armour by his lady's hand was mere caprice of romantic fashion; it is the type of an eternal truth; that the soul's armour is never well set to the human heart unless a woman's hand has braced it, and it is only when she braces it loosely that the honor of manhood fails."

A Junior Red Cross organization was also perfected over the county and included in its membership practically every school child in the county. The principal credit for the work of organizing and managing the juniors is due to the teachers of the county under the leadership of the County Superintendent, who was also chairman of the School Committee.

The highest number of members belonging to the Jasper County Chapter at any one time was 9,138. The highest number belonging to the Colfax Chapter at any one time was 952. This means a great many more than one member for each family in the county.

The production of manufactured articles by the Jasper County Chapter was as follows:

Miscellaneous contributions, including membership received outside of special campaigns	35,714.24

Total, $84,495.57

The money raised by the Colfax Chapter was as follows:

War Fund Campaigns	$6,080.77
Memberships and miscellaneous contributions	8,052.32

Total, $14,133.09

TOTAL FOR THE ENTIRE COUNTY, $98,628.66

In the stress of the great war, people were too busy getting things done to adopt absolutely accurate systems of bookkeeping in all cases. The Branches bought their supplies of chapter headquarters at Newton and Colfax mostly, and paid for them out of branch funds. These remittances appear in the accounts of the Chapter Treasurers. On the other hand, the Branches were entitled to a share in the various war funds which were collected at Chapter Headquarters, and these shares were in many cases sent them in cash by the Chapter Treasurers, and accordingly appear on the Branch accounts. Large sums were raised at chapter headquarters and in the branches outside of memberships and war fund drives, and considerable disbursements were made by the branches that did not go through chapter headquarters. These things make it difficult to get an exact statement of the total raised all over the county for Red Cross purposes and at the same time avoid duplication of items. A few approximations have been made on this account, but in all cases they are close and may be relied upon. If there is any error, the amounts are understated.

Of the total amount raised, about $10,000.00 is still on hand at chapter headquarters and in the hands of the various branches. The balance was spent for the purchase of material for the great quantities of manufactured articles made by the women and listed above, for the share in the various campaign funds due National Red Cross, for the relief of families of soldiers, for relief during the flu epidemic, and for general incidental expenses. The National Red Cross got three-fourths of the funds raised by the war drives, and approximately one-half of all funds raised in membership drives. $3,600.00 from funds on hand was also sent to the National Red Cross in March, 1920. No salaries were paid anyone except a small amount for clerical work, and a small amount paid Mrs. Lana Henderson by the Newton Branch for winding up the work at headquarters after the armistice was signed, when public interest had fallen off to such an extent as to make it hard to get volunteer help.

The methods of raising the miscellaneous contributions were many and clever. Baxter originated the idea of a street carnival by local talent which proved a great success wherever tried. Entertainments of all sorts were given. Red Cross quilts were made and sold at auction. In some parts of the county, notably in the northeast part, farmers donated hogs or other live stock which were sold and the entire proceeds turned over to the Red Cross. The regular monthly payments on subscriptions taken for general expense were the chief source of general revenue at Newton.

During the principal part of the war period, the officers and committee heads of the Jasper County Chapter, both at headquarters and in the branches, were as follows:

In a cause where so many gave so freely of their means and their time, it would be impossible to mention all whose services were meritorious. No history of the Red Cross in Jasper County would be complete, however, without special mention of the work of Miss Helen M. Needles who organized the chapter, and acted as executive secretary, devoting all her time, until she went abroad for war work; Mrs. Jay Clark, who was in charge of the hospital supplies department of the chapter from its organization until the armistice, and whose service record shows 4,600 hours devoted to the work; Mrs. J. C. Hawkins, first in charge of the surgical dressings department and then executive secretary until the armistice, with a record of 3,200 hours. These women left their personal interests and devoted their entire time to the work when the country needed them most. In addition to the actual work done, they carried the responsibility of the entire chapter to a large extent. This responsibility was also shared by Mrs. F. H. Bergman who was at the head of the surgical dressings department for a long time, and whose service record shows 1,700 hours. Other people in the county whose records on file show one thousand hours or over of service are: Mrs. W. A. Green, Sr., Gilman; Mrs. Mary Smith, Newton; Lida Lower, Prairie City; Lillian L. Taylor, Newton; Irene Clark, Newton; Mrs. Mearl Stewart, Newton; Mrs. Lana Henderson, Newton; Mrs. C. Coker, Newton; Mae Swisher, Newton; Mrs. L. S. Kennington, Newton; Mrs. A. M. Hough, Newton; Frances H. Gorrell, Newton; Mrs. H. S. Morrison, Newton; Miss Helen Green, Gilman.

The officers of the Colfax Chapter and its branches during the principal part of the war period were as follows:

Washington Center Circle also rendered efficient aid as an organization.

The record of the work done by this chapter with a small territorial jurisdiction is sufficient testimonial to the faithfulness of its members.

When the final historian writes the ultimate chapter in the history of the greatest whirlwind of war that ever scourged the world, he will set down as the fairest fact in the whole grisly business, a record of the efforts of the Red Cross and kindred organizations to preserve the brotherhood of man and to plant the white blossom of charity on the blood-soaked fields of war.

Jasper County Council of Defense

Following a meeting held in Des Moines, called by Governor W. L. Harding, on February 11, 1917, county councils of defense were organized throughout the state. Governor Harding named two men in each county to proceed with the work of county organization. H. B. Allfree and O. P. Myers of Newton were named by the governor for Jasper County and they in turn named one man in each township to act as township chairman, and thus was moulded together one of the strongest and most important war service organizations in the state. The permanent organization was perfected with H. B. Allfree of Newton as chairman and J. A. Winger, postmaster of Newton, as secretary and treasurer.

The Jasper County Council of Defense through its committees took over practically all of the war service work in the county and thus much duplication of effort and expense was dispensed with.

War Drives

The first of the war drive activities sponsored by the Council of Defense was on May 15, 1917, when the Y. M. C. A. campaign for funds was launched. The Jasper County quota of $2,000 was easily subscribed.

From May 27 to June 2, 1917, the first campaign for money to help the government prosecute the war was made in the form of the first liberty loan drive. The first liberty loan campaign in Jasper County was handled under the direction of the bankers of the county. The county's quota of $750,000 and was oversubscribed.

The first Red Cross drive in the county was instituted on May 27, 1917, and the Council of Defense took an active part in raising the county's quota of $15,000.

On July 6, 1917, the first draft numbers were received by the county Selective Service Board from Washington. The Council of Defense assisted the soldiers of the county in filling out their questionnaires and other papers in connection with the selective draft.

The chairman of the Council of Defense appointed one man in each town in the county to act as Food Administrator whose duties were to see that the provisions of the orders of the national food administration were carried out and observed in order that the conservation of food could be effectively maintained.

The fuel administration was handled in a like manner, D. L. Clark, J. Lindley Coon, and C. P. Hunter of Newton acting as the county's fuel administrators.

Another organization working in connection with the Council of Defense was the Four-Minute Men. This organization was directed by Ross R. Mowry and the members consisted of prominent business and professional men all over the county, who delivered four minute talks in the theatres and at other public gatherings. The main object of the speakers was to keep before the public the things their government was fighting for and how they could best help in the great struggle.

The Second Liberty Loan was opened on October 9, 1917, and was handled through the Council of Defense. The quota of $1,000,000 for the county was subscribed.

The next drive was the Third Liberty Loan which started in May, 1918, and was oversubscribed about 230 per cent. The county's quota was $756,000.

The Fourth Liberty Loan was started September 30, 1918, and culminated in raising the county's quota of $1,732,200.

And finally as a grand finish to the campaigns already undertaken for the government loans, the Fifth or Victory Loan was launched on April 6, 1919. That the people of the county were just as loyal as at the beginning, the county subscribed its quota of $1,302,000. The total amount subscribed for the five liberty loans in Jasper County reached the sum of $5,447,200.

In connection with the fifth loan drive the Council of Defense asked subscriptions for the erection of a suitable memorial to the boys from Jasper County who gave their lives while serving their country in the great war. The campaign was started for $25,000 to be used for this purpose and about one-fifth of that amount was raised. The Council of Defense expects to complete the canvass for funds for the memorial during the fall of 1920.

The War Service Council was a tributary organization of the Council of Defense composed of two men in each school district who worked under the direction of the township chairman of the Council of Defense. A total of 435 men in Jasper County was enrolled in this work and canvassed their school districts for every war activity of the Council of Defense.

The Jasper County Council of Defense enjoys the distinction of being the first county council organized in the state and its record of achievement stands forth as a glowing tribute to the men who so willingly disregarded their own personal and business affairs in order that the work assigned to them could be successfully concluded.

The Draft Board

On a warm summer day in the summer of 1914, a shot was fired which echoed and reechoed across the mighty oceans and through the great continents.

It started a conflagration which involved the world and was known as the World War. At first the war spread over the plains and mountains of Europe, but soon it extended to Asia and Africa, and the islands of the sea. In a short time it spread to the farthest parts of the world.

For months and years our country looked on and acted the part of the innocent bystander. While some realized the great conflagration would sooner or later involve us in the struggle, we hoped against hope that it would pass us by. Vain hope! We maintained our strict neutrality even when our rights were violated; our happiness and peace trodden underfoot. At last it was seen that we could no longer avoid our plain duty if we wished to preserve our sovereign dignity and the President advised and Congress acted by declaring that a state of war existed and passed a war measure called the conscription bill, requiring all males between the ages of 21 and 31 to register for war purposes. Later amendments were passed requiring males over 18 years of age and to 45, inclusive, to register. Draft Boards for districts and counties were organized to register and number the ten millions of men who were required to register. In our county the Sheriff, W. S. Gove, and the County Auditor, C. O. Edge, were selected by the Governor of Iowa and the President to act as members of the Local Board. Also Dr. E. F. Besser was selected as the third member of the Board. The Board organized in 1917 by the selection of W. S. Gove as chairman and C. O. Edge as secretary. Mr. Gove acted as chairman until his death in August, 1918, at which time he was succeeded by C. O. Edge as chairman. T. J. Patton who had been the clerk of the Local Board was then appointed a member of the Local Board and was selected as the secretary and these two with Dr. E. F. Besser continued as the Local Board until the finishing up of the work.

On June 5, 1917, the first great registration was held all over the United States. In this county over 2,500 men registered on that date. In the different registrations held, there was a grand total of nearly 6,000 men registered. Our Local Board entered upon its duties at once and on August 2, 3, and 4 physically examined nearly 500 men and later in the month examined 200 additional men and was ready for the first call for troops.

In September, 1917, we sent eleven men, the vanguard of the nearly 1,600 sent from this county, and later during the same month we sent 92 or 93 men, and at different times the county furnished its quota until the final call for November 11, 1918. On that date we had our men assembled at the Court House waiting for further orders, but the signing of the armistice on that date rendered it unnecessary for them to entrain.

The registering and classification of men required a vast amount of work, as each man was allowed to file claims for exemption in classes as provided for by the rules governing their cases, there being Classes 1, 2, 3, 4, and 5.

In the classification we were ordered to send the questionnaires out on a certain date, with instructions to return them within seven days. This plan for classification was provided for after the first troops had been sent in September, 1917, and the first questionnaires were mailed out about December 9, 1917, and began to come back on December 15, 1917. The Local Board began at once to classify them and forwarded some of them that same day to the District Board at Des Moines, Iowa. Our Board was the first one in the Southern District of Iowa to forward questionnaires. The District Board reviewed them at once and we were informed on December 17, 1917, of its findings.

It might be mentioned here that the Local Board passed on the question of dependency and the District Board on the question of occupation. All questionnaires having occupational claims were sent to Des Moines even if they had claims on dependency. The most deferred class governed the final classification. For instance, if a registrant was placed in Class 4 by the Local Board on dependency and the District Board placed him in Class 2 or 3 on occupation, he would still be in Class 4, while if the local board placed registrant in Class 2 or 3 on dependency and the District Board placed him in Class 4 on occupation, the latter class would govern.

It is impossible to narrate the many incidents in connection with the work. The many pathetic, the many humorous. Some were anxious to be placed in Class 1 when they should have asked to be deferred. Some, it seemed, should not have asked for exemption and did. But on the whole, the Local Board was proud of the many who seemed so willing to go and wanted to safely pass the physical examination. The 1587 stars on the service flag speak a language of themselves. It shows to the citizens of the future that Jasper County did her full share and furnished her full quota on every call and helped to fill out the quotas of some other counties who were short of men to fill their quotas. And the 53 gold stars. How can we speak of them? They represent 53 of Jasper County's best and noblest. When the call came for them to answer to their country's need, it was not theirs to question why. Theirs only to answer. Here. And now they sleep the last long sleep. Some sleep in Flanders field where poppies blow, some sleep in the English churchyard, and some sleep in the cemetery of their own home town. But be it near, or be it far, where they are sleeping the years of their manhood away, their lives will ever be remembered by a grateful people. As the years of the future stretch out into the unknown centuries, they will stand with the men of Bunker Hill and Saratoga and Yorktown, of Gettysburg and Vicksburg and Appomattox. We will ever hold their memory dear.

May the Great God of the Universe so will it, that there may never again be a call for like services. But if again, in future years, the call may come, we who have looked into the eager, brave and noble faces of the young manhood of America know that there will be no danger to our country, no alarm for our safety, as we gather at our firesides. But they will stand together as they have in the past, with faith to stand for the right, as God gave them to see the right, with the free blue sky above their heads and freedom's soil beneath their feet.

Honorable Mention

It would indeed be a difficult task to mention all of the acts and deeds performed by the men and women of Jasper County in the common cause of winning the war.

The real success of our country's efforts to provide food for our fighting men overseas and in the camps at home, and our allies as well, was due to the loyalty of the farmers and agricultural interests of the country. In Jasper County the farmers united almost to a man in their efforts to increase their yield of grain and provisions, and literally they accomplished the feat of making "two grains grow where but one grew before".

The housewives of the county combined to conserve the consumption of wheat, sugar, fats and meats, through the various methods recommended by the Extension Department of Iowa Agricultural College, such as the cold pack method of canning, etc.

The various boy scout troops of the county were characterized by a most fervid patriotism. The boy scouts busied themselves with spreading information about courtesies due the flag and national anthem, soliciting subscriptions during the various drives for money, and in general assisting wherever the eager hands and feet of a boy could be of use.

The schools of the county provided another center of activity with the organization of the Junior Red Cross bodies and thrift campaigns.

The Jasper County Farm Bureau, though newly organized at the beginning of the war, was a powerful force in promoting increased production and conservation. Under its leadership the farmers of the county raised great fields of wheat, because the government needed wheat, in spite of the fact that the crop is not regarded as a profitable one in this county.

The churches of the county from the beginning were characterized by an unusually definite stand in support of the war, and led in developing confidence that the war was waged in the interest of justice and human progress. The attitude of the churches as a whole was virile in its hearty Americanism and its influence was mighty.

In forming and sustaining public opinion the newspapers of Jasper County did a great work. Frowning upon temporizing criticism and hesitation, they supported the government in extraordinary enterprises in a way which proved their own breadth of mind and sincere loyalty. Every drive for funds had their hearty coöperation, and they helped to foster the right kind of sentiment by emphasizing the glory of sacrifice in a great cause.

The commercial clubs and various bands of the county were liberal in their efforts to sustain the government on every hand. There are many unwritten stories of real sacrifices that might be told that will remain a silent tribute to the honest endeavor of an honest and patriotic people.

THE GREAT WORLD WAR

AN ILLUSTRATED REVIEW

WHEN the World War ended on November 11th, 1918, the armed forces of 25 nations of the globe had been hurling their armies against each other for more than four years in the most colossal struggle of history. After a conflict without parallel, it ended in its 52d month with a casualty total nearing the ten million mark.

Set off by the murder of an ordinary Austrian archduke on June 28th, 1914, by a Serbian political fanatic, the conflagration which had threatened the peace of Europe for decades was thus destined to embroil the leading powers of the world in the most costly and bloody strife known to man.

After a month's diplomatic argument over the affair, Austria formally opened hostilities with her declaration of war on Serbia. General mobilization followed quickly in Russia; a "state of war" was almost immediately declared in Germany. Then on August 1st Germany declared war on Russia, following this with an ultimatum to Belgium demanding that her troops be given free passage across that country. On August 3d, the Teutons included France on their list of enemies. This was followed next day by an ultimatum to Germany from Great Britain demanding that the neutrality of Belgium be respected. When this assurance was not granted by Emperor Wilhelm, Great Britain declared war on Germany. A quick succession of war declarations finally involved the greater share of Europe by the end of the summer.

Mad with the ruthless spirit of conquest the Central Powers marched their armies off to war in grand fashion, boasting that they would return by Christmas time, the conquerors of Europe. Their amazing preparations for the dream of world power almost brought within their grasp the greedy ambition of the Junkers.

The initial successes of the German army in its advance through Belgium and on toward Paris astounded the world. England and France reeled and staggered before the terrific onslaught of the famous Prussian Guards and the other crack armies of the Central Powers. Swept off her feet almost by the spectacular aggression of the enemy, the fate of France virtually hung from a thread as the invaders triumphantly swept on and on.

Early in September, when they were practically within reach of Paris, the tide was turned against them in the battle of the Marne, September 6-10. French themselves attribute their good fortune at this point to the hand of the Almighty rather than to their superior military strength at the time. This marked the enemy's point of farthest advance.

The atrocities of the advancing Huns during the months of their early triumphs and conquest have been called infamous by conservative journalists and correspondents. Suffice to say, their bloodthirsty ambition to rule and conquer the world knew no bounds, and that their acts and deeds of disgrace will forever remain one of the darkest of the many blotches brought on the German people during the European war.

Believing that the United States had no part to play in the war at that time, President Woodrow Wilson, on August 4th, 1914, officially proclaimed the neutrality of the United States. The war was thus confined to Europe for many months, a struggle mainly between the two great European Alliances—the Triple Alliance composing Germany, Austria Hungary and Italy, against the Triple Entente, composing England, Russia and France. Italy, originally a member of the Triple Alliance, but later one of the chief powers of the Allies, did not enter the war until 1915. She then declared war on all of Germany's Allies, but did not break with Germany herself until late in 1916. Before the war she was a member of the Triple Alliance with Germany and Austria but severed this connection to fight with the Allies.

After the marvelous advances of the first year, the great battle line in Europe remained practically stationary for nearly three years and extended over more than 300 miles. The large armies of each force fought doggedly, suffered heroically and died willingly, in a mighty death-grip whose battles surpassed the most famous of previous wars for loss of life and destruction of property.

The superb Armies of the Russians in the Eastern theater kept the attention of a large German force occupied and away from the Western Front. This fact aided the Allies tremendously and probably prevented a German Peace in the second and third years of the War.

It was while France, England and Italy were staggering before the last big offensive of the enemy early in 1918 that America's force was thrown into the balance in substantial numbers.

Her declaration of war against Germany on April 6th, 1917, grew out of the Central Powers' failure to recognize the rights of neutrals on the high seas. Repeatedly the rights of the United States were violated, and just as repeatedly Germany refused to discontinue her ruthless program of submarine warfare against the world. The sinking of the Lusitania on May 7th, 1915, without warning and with the loss of 1154 lives, 114 of whom were Americans, was regarded by a great many as just cause for a declaration of war against Germany. The President and Congress believing differently, failed to act, and it was not until more sinkings of women and children that the United States decided to step into the breach herself.

Regarded as a mere "bluff" by her adversaries, the United States' entrance apparently failed to cause undue anxiety in Berlin. With an unprepared democracy for another enemy in which a great many were believed to have been opposed to war, Germany had little cause for worry, she declared.

But America went to work. The act produced an electrical effect on her people and almost instantly united her various factions, creeds, parties, and nationalities for one purpose—to crush Germany and her Allies. She became a workshop, with no hours, in her determination to end the European fight victoriously, and thus save democracy for the world. Every effort was bended to the cause, every penny of wealth was eagerly held ready for the call, and every atom of energy was expended in her feverish haste to redeem mankind.

Her sons by the hundreds of thousands rushed to the colors, as their fathers did in the wars of their day, to see another victory added to the flag which had never known defeat. That the distribution of soldiers throughout the land might be as nearly equitable as possible, Congress passed the Selective Service Act in May, 1918, the greatest mobilization machinery developed by any of the 25 nations at war.

Naturally there were obstacles and delays. A nation's task in rising up over night to send a formidable force three thousand miles overseas to fight for world freedom is not the kind that can be accomplished without some disorder and delay. But loyalty and union did it, and on June 26th, 1917, only two months after the declaration of war, the first American doughboy landed on French soil. On November 3d, 1917, the Yanks had their first clash with the Germans. On January 31st, 1918, a report reached America that American infantrymen were occupying first line trenches for the first time.

By this time the United States had declared a state of war existing with Austria Hungary, Germany's chief ally, and had swung her domestic machinery into the greatest war machine conceivable. She had begun to raise by popular bond subscriptions billions of dollars to supply guns and munitions, and food and clothes, for the boys who were going over to France to do the job.

Four Liberty Loans were floated during the war, and the total subscriptions to these amounted to between eighteen and nineteen billions of dollars. This amount was taken by more than 50 million subscribers, and was to be only an insignificant factor in the financing of the war, according to the Treasury Department. This cost when compared with the total cost of the Civil War for four years—approximately $4,000,000,000—is proof enough that the World War was not comparable with any previous war in history. In April, 1919, following the armistice, another Fifth or Victory Loan of approximately the same dimensions as the Fourth, was floated. The wonderfully prompt and generous response of the nation to each of the calls of the Liberty Loans was one of the greatest sources of inspiration for the men in uniform who had gone to fight for those at home. The same patriotic generosity that marked the success of the Liberty Loan was evident in each of the scores of war work drives that were conducted for the various relief and welfare organizations.

Food conservation—conservation of man-power, the work or fight order, the noble, work of the women who sewed and knitted night and day for the Red Cross and the boys, the curtailment of profits and the simple economy was practiced by rich and poor alike, were but a few of the many war time measures that characterized the life of America's hundred and some million during the year and a half during which she was at war. No history of that war will ever have room for a just story of the part played by the loyal home folks—those who waited and prayed, and worked and gave, to keep the home fires burning.

Foremost among the initial problems of America, after preliminary plans for the raising of her army had been laid, was the problem of transporting them to France, so that their strength might be thrown against the Hun on the battlefield. Shipping was not available, and even though it was being increased at maximum capacity, still there was not more than half as much as was needed to transport the men in the numbers they were being trained and in the numbers they were needed by France and England and Italy.

England gladly placed her available shipping at the disposal of the United States, and before the war had ended she had carried more than one million Yanks to the side of her own men and those of the French, or nearly half of those who had gone overseas. The importance of the United States Navy in the war can hardly be exaggerated. Within less than a month after hostilities were declared, she had sent a detachment of destroyers to European waters. By October, 1918, there were 338 ships of all classes flying the American flag in foreign waters. The operations of the Navy during the war covered the widest scope in its history. They operated in European waters from the Mediterranean to the White Sea. At Corfu, Gibraltar, in the Bay of Biscay, on the Irish Coast, at the English Channel ports, in the North Sea and at Archangel, they did creditable work. This service was not as brilliant perhaps as that of the army, because the nature of its vital work kept it from the front. Even though its activities were probably less glorious, still they were none the less important and necessary to the cause.

Naval men served on nearly 2000 craft that plied the waters of the globe, on submarines that had no fear of the under-sea perils, and in aviation where men of courage fought and prevented surprise attacks with new-found weapons.

In diplomacy, in investigation at home and in all parts of the world by naval officers and civilian agents, in protecting industry from enemy spies, in promoting new industries and enlarging older ones to meet war-time needs—these are a few of the accomplishments that are outstanding in the part played by the Navy in winning the war.

Shortly after the declaration of war, the submarine problem had become so acute and the merchant ship losses so great, it became necessary to adopt more effective methods in dealing with the problem and making shipping safer. The system of convoy was adopted at the suggestion of President Wilson. This, although it slowed up shipping by fully twenty percent, enabled a comparatively safe passage of troops and was probably the greatest stroke of the Navy during the war.

During all the time the United States was engaged in the war the enemy's naval forces, with the exception of the submarines, were blockaded in his ports. This, of course, prevented naval engagements of a major character. The destroyers, submarine chasers and patrol vessels, however, waged an unceasing offensive against the submarine menace to shipping and troop convoy, and only three vessels were sunk. These were the Antilles, the President Lincoln and the Covington. Each was struck on her return voyage, so that the loss of life was comparatively small. Only three fighting vessels were lost as the result of enemy action—a patrol ship, a torpedo boat destroyer and a cruiser. The other transports and destroyers struck by the enemy during the war reached port without loss of life. Other Transports carrying United States soldiers went down but these were being convoyed by the British Admiralty. Chief among these was the Tuscania, sunk off the Coast of Ireland February 5th, 1918, with a loss of 110 lives.

The most serious loss of life in the navy as a result of its war-time activity resulted when 111 officers and men of the Coast Guard cutter Tampa perished when their vessel was sunk in Bristol Channel, England, in September, 1918. The Tampa had been doing escort duty in the transport service. It had gone ahead of the convoy and was sunk soon after leaving the party.

British Flyers "Taking Off" at Dawn for a Trip Over the Lines and a Few Fokkers.

With its record of phenomenal transport service in protecting troops and shipping against the enemy submarine offensive; its splendid co-operation with the British Fleet in keeping the German navy in port and Germany herself blockaded; its stellar work with the giant 14 inch long range guns at the front; and its subsequent spectacular feat in first bridging the Atlantic by air, the United States Navy had a share in the World War which although as previously stated is seldom characterized as brilliantly as that of the Army and Marines, still was equally important and essential in keeping the war wheels turning victoriously.

The story of the activities of America's two million doughboys and marines in France is one which should be told in volumes rather than in paragraphs. From the time of their first clash with the Germans on November 3d, 1917, until they "let go" the last unwelcome guests against Fritz's lines early November 11th, 1918—their deeds are a succession of courageous and brilliant performances of duty.

"When I think of their heroism, their patience under hardships, and their unflinching spirit of offensive action, I am filled with emotion which I am unable to express," General

John J. Pershing declared in commending the officers and soldiers of the line of the American Army. "Their deeds are immortal, and they have earned the eternal gratitude of our country."

This simple tribute to the brave American lads who fought and died in France is indicative of America's reverence for her heroic armies. Their glory and fame will always live by the side of the deeds of their forbears in previous wars.

In May, 1917, shortly after war was declared, General Pershing, well-known for his punitive expedition into Mexico, was selected by the War Department to command the American Expeditionary Forces that were to go to France. After gathering about him a small staff the General set sail. His reception in both England and France was only equalled by the readiness of the commanders of both armies to co-operate with the United States in the prosecution of the war, according to the General's own report.

His general staff was organized in a short time and detailed plans worked out for the organization and training of the millions of American soldiers who were expected in France to help finish the Hun. Training areas, designed to give the final seasoning to fresh troops arriving from the States before their entry into the front lines, and officers schools for the various arms of the service were established.

Extensive construction provided vast warehouses, supply depots, munition storehouses, and the like for the huge task ahead. Although France offered much in the way of both ordnance and quartermaster property for use by the American Army, still enormous quantities of materials of all kinds had to be brought across the Atlantic.

Flocking into the Army from civil life were thousands of professional and business men with splendid talent along the lines needed to build up this immense service of supply that was to keep the A. E. F. in action. To meet the shortage of supplies due to lack of shipping, representatives of the various supply departments were constantly in search of supplies and materials in Europe. A general purchasing agency was provided, in order to better co-ordinate the purchasing and to prevent competition between departments of the army. So successful was this system in the American Army that it was almost universally adopted by the armies of the Allies before the war had ended.

"Our entry into the war found us with few of the auxiliaries necessary for its conduct in the modern sense," General Pershing declared in his official report. "Among our most important deficiencies in material were artillery, aviation and tanks. In order to meet our requirements as quickly as possible we accepted the offer of the French Government to provide us from their own factories with the necessary artillery equipment for thirty divisions. In aviation we were in the same situation and here again the French Government came to our aid until we were able to get our own air service program under way. The necessary planes to train the air service personnel were provided and we secured from the French a total of 2676 pursuit, bombing and observation planes. The first planes to arrive from America came in May, 1918, and a total of 1379 were received during the war. The first American squadron completely equipped by American production, including airplanes, crossed the German lines on August 7th, 1918. For tanks we also were compelled to rely upon the French. We were less fortunate here, however, for the reason that the French were scarcely able to meet their own production requirements in this respect. It should be remembered by every American that the French Government always took a most liberal attitude in endeavoring to supply the shortages existing in the American Army."

Speaking of the soldiers in Europe General Pershing outlines with words of praise the work done by the various welfare organizations and of the responsive attitude found among the soldiers by these organizations.

"The welfare of the troops touches my responsibility as Commander-in-Chief to the mothers and fathers and kindred of the men who went to France in the impressionable period of youth. They could not have the privilege accorded the soldiers of Europe during their leaves of visiting their relatives and renewing their home ties. Fully realizing that the standard of conduct that should be established for them must have a permanent influence on their lives and the character of their future citizenship, the Red Cross, the Young Men's Christian Association, the Knights of Columbus, the Salvation Army and the Jewish Welfare Board, as auxiliaries in this work, were encouraged in every manner possible. The fact that our soldiers, in a land of different customs and language, have borne themselves in a manner in keeping with the cause for which they fought, is due not only to the efforts in their behalf, but much more to other high ideals, their discipline, and their innate sense of self-respect. It should be recorded, however, that the members of these welfare societies have been untiring in their desire to be of real service to our officers and men. The patriotic devotion of these representative men and women has given a new significance to the Golden Rule, and we owe to them a debt of gratitude that can never be entirely repaid."

The First Division of the American Army, after finishing its preliminary training behind the lines, went to the trenches for the first time in October, 1917, as the first contribution to the fighting forces of the Allies. By the time that the great German offensive in Picardy began, on March 21st, 1918, the American army had four experienced divisions in the line. The great crisis that this drive developed, however, made it impossible for the Americans to take over a sector by themselves. Gradually, as their numbers increased and more reserves, fresh from the States, were placed in training behind the lines, the American boys went in in substantial numbers. Already they had displayed their splendid fighting qualities and had demonstrated that as soldiers they had no superiors. Incidentally, it did not take them long to convince the enemy that contrary to their own opinions, they themselves were not invincible.

On August 30th, 1918, the American forces took over the first American sector, in preparation for the St. Mihiel offensive. The American line was soon extended across the Meuse River to the west edge of the Argonne Forest. The concentration of tanks, aviation units, artillery equipment, and materials of all kinds for this first great American offensive was enormous. The scores of elements of a complete army were moulded together, with American railroad and American service of supply units throughout. The concentration included the bringing up of approximately 600,000 troops. The French Independent Air Force, together with British bombing units and American Air forces, placed the greatest aviation personnel that ever took part in any Western Front offensive under the direct command of General Pershing.

On the day after they had taken the St. Mihiel Salient a great share of the corps and army artillery that had operated in that offensive were on the move toward the area back of the line between the Meuse River and the western edge of the Argonne. The German General Staff was well aware of the consequences of an American success along this line, and it was determined to use every available American division in an effort to force a decision at this point. The attack began on September 26th. The work of the American army and of the American engineers in this drive will forever remain in the memory of generations to come. Forcing their way through the densely wooded and shell torn areas, their fight was one of the most brilliant battles of the war. The offensive was maintained until October 4th in the face of innumerable wooded patches of snipers and concealed machine gunners.

Fresh troops with little experience were thrown in with their seasoned comrades, who had become veterans over night with this most crucial battle as their teacher. The second phase began with a renewed attack all along the front on October 4th. More positions were taken with a precision and speed that always characterized the Yank army. Their dogged offensive was wearing down the enemy, who, continuing desperately by throwing his best troops against them, was helpless before the spectacular advance.

At this juncture two divisions were dispatched to Belgium to help the French army near Ypres. On October 23d, the last phase of the Meuse-Argonne offensive began. Violent counter attacks by the enemy lost him heavily, while a regrouping of the American force was going on for the final drive. Plain evidences of loss of morale in the enemy forces gave our men added courage and spirit, and finally, using comparatively fresh divisions, the last advance was begun on November 1st. It was apparent at this time that the end was near for the Boche. Our increased artillery support did remarkable work in supporting the infantry, which by its dashing advance of the several weeks preceding had destroyed the Hun's will to resist.

Between September 26th and November 6th they had taken 26,059 prisoners and 468 guns on this front.

The divisions engaged in this, the most important of America's battles in the European war, were the 1st, 2d, 3d, 4th, 5th, 26th, 28th, 29th, 32d, 33d, 35th, 37th, 42d, 77th, 78th, 79th, 80th, 82d, 89th, 90th and 91st. Many of these divisions remained in line for a length of time that required nerves of steel while still others were put back in the line after only a few days of rest.

When the armistice was signed following a complete routing of the enemy by Americans in the Argonne Forest there were in France, according to General Pershing, approximately 2,053,347 troops, less the casualties. Of this total there were 1,338,169 combatant troops. Up to November 18th the losses were: Killed and wounded, 36,145; died of disease, 14,811; deaths unclassified, 2,204; wounded 179,625; prisoners, 2,163; missing in action 1,160. As against this casualty total, the American forces captured about 44,000 prisoners and 1,400 guns, howitzers and trench mortars.

In this short summary of the principal activities of the United States' part in the great war it is obviously impossible to more than skim over the various features of the great war machinery. The heroism and gallantry of the boys who fought and died over there; the unceasing devotion and courage of the parents and citizens at home who stood by them so unselfishly; and the determination of everyone, young and old, to unite for the common cause, setting aside their personal desires and interests, was responsible for the glorious victory in which America was so conspicuously instrumental in bringing about. Outstripping a hundredfold the dimensions of any previous war of the United States, the task accomplished was a revelation to all when viewed in retrospect. The accomplishments of the Liberty Loans, the devotion of the millions of mothers and sisters in behalf of the Red Cross, the wonderful response of the country to the operation of the Selective Service Act in raising an army of millions—the sacrifices of all, at home and abroad, were universal during the year and a half at which America was at war.

Loyalty and love of country were terms with new meanings. Sedition was lurking only here and there, and this was promptly done away with through the efficient secret service department and popular opinion. The four million American boys who were under arms, many of them at the front and the remainder eager for the chance to jump in, convinced the world that the fighting blood that gave birth to their nation had not been diluted through the riotous living of a century. The brave lads who gave their lives and are now buried over there went to their fate with hearts full of joy, and in a manner that gave courage to the veterans of four years who fought beside them. And their brave mothers in the States who waited in vain for peace to bring their sons back to them, made the greatest sacrifices within their power with a courage and willingness that was unequalled even by the Spartans themselves.

When the history of the great European struggle is permanently written, there will be no more brilliant chapters than those telling of the part played by the United States of America in stamping out militaristic autocracy from the world.
